

Santiago Pilgrims' Pictures – thesaurus of search terms

- To make the most effective use of the search facility of the Gallery, please familiarise yourself with the following list of keywords - print it off if that helps.
- Remember that the Gallery is still under development. Terms which appear in red remain provisional.
- The principle behind our choice of keywords is to prefer an English term in all cases, except where the thing described is unique to one culture and language.
- Non-English terms which you might be tempted to use are entered in italics with an arrow indicating the preferred term: thus "Alcázares > Fortresses" means that we have indexed all Alcázares under the term "Fortresses"
- Remember too that if you click on any keyword below any picture, you will generate a search for all other pictures sharing that keyword. This is not as sophisticated as the Boolean search included on the Search page itself.
- This list was last updated on 21 January 2007.
